Rabbi's Message

Over Martin Luther King weekend, I had the opportunity to be in Washington on a Beit Sefer Shalom trip with high school students. Several experiences from our trip stand out and are worth sharing. On Martin Luther King Day, we attended a Mitzvah day program at Washington Hebrew Congregation. Mitzvah Day involved several hundred people working on food packaging programs, crafts, sorting clothing and more. There were several projects in which we could have participated. Our group chose to make blankets and scarves that would be brought to a homeless shelter in the city. Perhaps more important than what we were doing was with whom. Working alongside us were students from two different mosques, an inner city Baptist church and a large group from Catholic University as well as adults and members of the youth programs from Washington Hebrew Congregation. We were not just performing Mitzvot with our hands, but with our presence, demonstrating welcoming and tolerance.

Saturday morning, we held our own Shabbat morning services in which we all participated. Our kids can sing! For me, it was one of the highlights of the weekend and filled with Shabbat ruach.

After services, we visited the US Holocaust Memorial and Museum. It is always difficult to walk through the museum, but it is very meaningful. The museum is not all about the haters and the hated. Much of it is about those who cared and worked to oppose the hate, those who saved lives, and those who celebrated Judaism in the darkest times, bringing light into the world. The museum, perhaps more than any other, shows how people might respond at times of crisis, good and bad. Many of the stories are inspirational for people of all ages today.

President's Comments

If you've not attended a Shabbat Service on Family Shabbat recently, you are missing a whole bunch of that "Shabbat Feeling." It never fails to warm my heart to see young and old alike participating in a very kid friendly environment that is welcoming to everyone. This past Shabbat (January 8) not only did we have a number of our members in attendance for services and dinner, but we also had two tour groups of over 80 folks from two different churches. Big thanks to Sondra Feldstein for leading the tour.

In addition, we had a baby naming for a lovely young lady, Elianna Ruth Leitner. What struck me was the circle of life for members of our Temple. I remember Elianna's mother growing up as she is close to the same age as my children.

Alex Feldstein was home from graduate school and I would not have recognized him if he had not been with his siblings, Sam and Anna. Jacob Grund was there with his folks, as well as his sister Shayna and her new daughter, Evie. Jacob and my daughter Jillian went all through school together, both public and religious.

How wonderful to see Steve Wilke-Shapiro along with his wife Rachel and their fast growing boys and the prideful look on Steve's face when he took his family for a quick peek at the almost completed lower level that would never had been possible without Steve's vision for preserving historical buildings. To see Laura Sparks lead music with her brother Sam and her husband and boys in attendance for Family Shabbat always makes me smile.

To welcome back Emily and Terry Kruse and their boys back to the Des Moines area and the Temple and have Emily share with me that Scott's Bar Mitzvah has been scheduled for 2019! And of course to watch Penny Bassman's grandchildren sit and do crafts and participate in services.

The whole Shabbat experience that I was feeling is something I hope everyone feels when they attend either a service or an event at the Temple. It is not the building or the clergy or the service itself that makes our Temple what it is. It is our members, our families, and the circle of life that keeps our Temple vibrant and alive. I hope you will find time to join us soon.

B 'Shalom,
Judy Shkolnick, President

While there were many other fun, educational, and otherwise meaningful experiences, MLK Shabbat services at Sixth & I Synagogue were perhaps the singular highlight of the trip. Sixth & I historic synagogue was reestablished in 2004 in a century-old building that formerly housed a synagogue and then for decades, an African American church. The pastor of that church and its Gospel choir joined with Sixth & I's rabbis and choir to lead an inspirational and meaningful service focused on tolerance, cooperation, and civil rights.

The theme of our MLK weekend in Washington is perhaps best summarized by a quote from the Rev. Dr. King, "The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy." It was a wonderful and meaningful experience for us all.

Rabbi David Kaufman

On Saturday, February 6, Torah Study and Shabbat Service will be held in the newly renovated lower level of the building. Christ Community Church will be holding a seminar upstairs in the social hall and if you attend Torah Study and/or Shabbat Service we ask that you use the new entrance to get into the building that morning.

Executive Director's Message

Slow and steady wins the race is an old adage that we are all familiar with, and one that you will likely be hearing from me a lot in the coming months. If you've been to the Temple in the past month you know that renovation to the lower level is nearly complete. As a result a lot of people have asked me when we will start moving into the lower level. That's typically when I reply that we will start to use the space very soon, but we will be moving into it slowly and methodically.

Although the work has been completed, the next step is to have it inspected and certified by local officials. This is an important step to ensure the safety of all who occupy this space. For example, once the elevator was installed and running there were some kinks that needed to be worked out before it could be certified for use. Currently the elevator, fire alarm, and fire suppression systems have all been certified, but a few other items need to be inspected before we can receive our occupancy permit. We should receive that permit in early February.

Once, we receive our occupancy permit it's not going to be a mad dash to downstairs. Judy Shkolnick, Alan Adato, myself, and few other key volunteers have been working on a plan to move to the lower level. The first step is to speak with our staff and volunteers to discover what they would like to see. Then we have been speaking with a few office furnishing professionals to get their ideas. The final step is to determine if we can make those ideas a reality. This process may not get us moved in very quickly, but I believe that moving slowly and surely will get us where we want to go.

Shalom, David Muenchrath

Our next Family Shabbat will take place on Friday, February 5 at 6:00 p.m. in the social hall. We'll have crafts for the kids beginning at 5:00 p.m. Immediately following Family Shabbat will be a potluck dinner. Please bring your favorite side dish or dessert!

Youth Group Update

Do you smell that? It smells like spring is almost upon us! With spring comes spring events and we've got quite a bit lined up. Teen Talks are continuing through February and March. Good conversation is easy to come by at these events and we have steady attendance. Of course, there is one gigantic, glaring event that I'm personally very excited about, and that is the NFTY-MV Junior Youth Group Chavurah in St. Louis. To be exact, February 26-28, at the Central Reform Congregation in St. Louis. For our 7-8 grade friends, there is not one event, not one, that is as important as this.

This trip is the opportunity to enter a whole new world — the world of NFTY. I'm serious, it's really, really, important. When they have so much fun — trust me they will — they'll be hooked on NFTY and on Judaism. Kids will spend the weekend celebrating Shabbat, participating in fun programs and making new friends. I've heard there will be a rather epic basketball game there, so it must be fun! Registration is open now. For parents who want more information, you can always email, call, or talk to me or Wendy Beckerman. I'll be putting my number and email address at the bottom of this article for those people. Go to <http://missourivalley.nfty.org/> under the "Events" tab to find the link to register.

Now that my NFTY rant is over let me briefly cover some other little tidbits of information. We had a great movie and game night in January—nothing like a good game of RISK! We also had some of our members, myself included, travel to Washington DC with Rabbi Kaufman to explore the Jewish side of our nation's capital. We met with Steven Beckerman, the son of Wendy Beckerman, who is a Senior Policy Analyst for AIPAC. We also toured the US Holocaust Museum as well as the Spy Museum. In addition, we toured The Capitol Building with Congressman David Young's office among other things. It was a fun and interesting trip and we learned a lot!

Well, that's about it. I hope 2016 is going well, and I'll see you around!

Shalom, Michael Adato, DMTYG President

Youth Group Game and Movie Night at the Temple on January 24

Beit Sefer Shalom Trip to Washington DC with Rabbi Kaufman

Game Time Is Party Time For Sisterhood

Some might think that the Super Bowl is for men. We're here to say that women enjoy it too. Come join us at the Temple for a Super Bowl party. Bring your own drinks and snacks to share. Root for either team or just hang out and comment on the commercials. Of course, it is not only for women either. Bring the family with you. Come, relax, spend time with your friends and watch the game. It's Sunday, February 7 beginning at 5:30. Please RSVP to the Temple office so we can have an estimate on how many will be attending. See you there.

Oxer/Harris Family Establishes Special Event Fund

Stuart Oxer and Wendi Harris have generously endowed a fund for special events here at Temple B'nai Jeshurun. The fund will be entitled Oxer and Harris Special Event Fund. The funds will be used here locally for Jewish Holiday celebrations such as the Passover Seder and Yom Kippur Break-the-Fast. The gift will also be used for special celebrations such as Temple Anniversary events and Israel related programming. The fund will be a source of many simchas through the years, and the Temple is very grateful for Stuart and Wendi's generosity. Wendi and Stuart have been members of our Temple for 16 years and have two children, Grant and Elizabeth, who grew up here at the Temple.
